Supervisors appoint interim constable

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock County has a new constable for its East District, following the first executive session ever called by the current board of supervisors.

The board has appointed Leo Ladner, currently a Hancock County Sheriff's Department deputy, as interim constable. Ladner will serve until a special election in November.

He is succeeding Paul Ladner, who was elected constable in the 1987 general election but has resigned.

Paul Ladner became the subject of controversy when an old moonshining conviction threatened to keep him from being able to complete the required Mississippi Law Enforcement Academy course due to a provision prohibiting people convicted of certain federal crimes from possessing or using firearms.

Ladner was able to overcome that problem through legal procedures, but a medical problem forced him to resign after about a year and a half in office.

The supervisors, after some delay, accepted Ladner's resignation in late July. By law, they had 10 days to name an interim constable.

On Monday, which was the tenth day, Beat Three Supervisor Lisa Coward made a motion to appoint Teddy Wayne Necaice as interim constable.

After Beat Five Supervisor Michael Ladner asked the board's attorney whether discussion on the motion was appropriate before someone seconded it, Coward's proposal died for lack of a second.

Board President Ronald Cuevas said the board members in the east district, with the exception of Beat Four Supervisor Wilmer Seymour, had suggested a number of people for the post. Seymour was absent because he is attending National Guard camp.

The basis for the final selection, Leo Ladner, was his qualifications, Cuevas said.

Because the interim term is only about 120 days, the board decided it would be best to appoint someone who had already completed the academy, had law enforcement experience and could start immediately.

Cuevas added that because the appointment is temporary, there will be no conflict with state statutes prohibiting anyone from holding simultaneous

County road repair bid accepted on 132-mile job

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has been waiting for three years to start paving on 132 miles of road.

The board accepted a bid of $1,190,854 on the project from Dixie Paving, Inc., of Columbia.

In offering his recommendation for the acceptance, County Engineer Larry Seal stated that Dixie is a "reputable company" which has done other work for the county.

Board President Ronald Cuevas said the engineering for the project, which will affect various roads in all five districts of the county, has taken almost one year.

The project involves resealing, overlay and other types of repairs but does not include Beach Road, which will be a separate project.

In July, the board passed a $1.4 million bond issue to pay for the project, which was one of the eight goals the supervisors announced when most of them took office two years ago.

The commitment to the project was made again late last year.

Because the bid came in lower than the estimate, Cuevas said the remaining money from the bond issue will be used to buy gravel for use by the road and bridge maintenance department.

When the board originally announced its intentions to do the project, Cuevas stated that the repairs would be the beginning of an ongoing, comprehensive program to blacktop all of the county's remaining unsurfaced roads.

STING OPERATION—Waveland beekeeper Carol Shiyon vacuums a hive of honey bees from between the walls of a building at Christ Episcopal Elementary School in Bay St. Louis Wednesday. The bees entered the building through a space between two boards. Shiyon had to cut a hole into the outside wall to remove the hive. Moments after the photo was taken, two bees got inside Shiyon's protective veil, forcing her to retreat until she could determine their point of entry. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

Camille commemoration scheduled for Sunday

BY DENA BISNETTE

A ceremony commemorating the 20th anniversary of Hurricane Camille has been scheduled for 6 p.m. Sunday at the corner of Ulman Avenue and Beach Boulevard.

A section of Beach Boulevard will be closed during the ceremony, which is a "community project," Lennette Necaice of the Hancock County Civil Defense Office said.

Congressman Larkin Smith is expected to be among the featured speakers. Also speaking will be a group of local ministers, including the Rev. Nathan Barber of First Baptist Church; Fr. William Kelly SVD, St. Augustine Seminary; Pastor Ron Skinner, Word of Faith Church; the Rev. Vernon Knight, Lutheran Church of the Pines; and the Rev. Van Carpenter, Main Street United Methodist Church.

Local city and county officials may also be called upon to speak.

Necaice said arrangements have been made for a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter to release a wreath on the bay and for a flotilla of boats to fly the American flag during the ceremony.

WBSL Radio will feature a live broadcast of the event. The Bay-Waveland Jaycees will have refreshments available.

Bay Council hopes loitering ordinance will help cut crime

BY D.C. HARVILL

There will be no more hanging around and causing trouble in Bay St. Louis.

At least that is what the Bay St. Louis City Council hopes the result of a new loitering ordinance passed Tuesday will be.

The ordinance arose out of a need for a legal basis by which police can handle situations that commonly occur at several "trouble spots" in the city.

People living in the vicinity of one of the trouble spots, the corner of St. Francis and Sycamore Streets, have been vocal recently about the drug trade and drug-related crimes that have become prevalent at the intersection. They have requested that the city increase police activity in the area.

According to the ordinance, presented to the council by Mayor Edward Favre, merely "hanging around" is not a crime, unless those doing so are creating a danger, breach of the peace, a disturbance or annoyance, obstructing free passage of pedestrians or vehicles or causing others to fear for their safety.

Use of offensive, disgusting or insulting language that is intended to annoy or disturb those who hear it, is also forbidden in public places, according to the ordinance.

In the past, many loitering laws have been declared unconstitutional, but the mayor is confident the new ordinance will withstand scrutiny, he said.

"Looking at some of the loitering laws on the books, it is easy to see how they could be declared unconstitutional," Favre said.

"I feel like we have something that will not violate anyone's constitutional rights, but will give us a tool to deal with some of the problems we have," he added.

Before drafting the ordinance, Favre and City Attorney John Scafide consulted the City of Pass Christian about a new loitering law they enacted recently.

"Pass Christian did a lot of research before they drew their ordinance," Favre said.

"I am very comfortable with it having talked to John (Scafide), Henry (City Prosecutor Cook) and Judge (George) Lipscomb," Favre added.

"This isn't going to help out with the situation at the corner of St. Francis and Sycamore," said Ruth Davis, who lives near the infamous drug haven.

The ordinance also contains a clause allowing police to remove people loitering on private property that has been posted by the owner, granting permission for the police to do so.

"It's going to take more than this piece of paper to solve the problem—people have to get involved," the mayor said.

"More than anything, we need your help," Scianna added.

The ordinance will become effective 30 days from the day it was passed.

ON PATROL

ECSTASY ARREST

A Baton Rouge man has been arrested by Bay St. Louis Police for allegedly transporting the narcotic ecstasy into the city.

Steven G. Graham, 26, was arrested at 7:42 p.m. July 31 after officers discovered numerous pills in his possession which have since been identified by the Mississippi Crime Lab as ecstasy, according to Bay Detective Shane Corr.

The arrest is part of an ongoing cooperative effort between Bay St. Louis Police and Baton Rouge Police Departments. The main thrust of the effort, according to Corr, is to halt the flow of ecstasy from the Baton Rouge area into Bay St. Louis before it becomes well established.

Graham has been released on a $5,000 bond. More arrests are expected in the case, Corr said.

State Pollution Control Bureau seeks comments on location of proposed solid waste landfill

The Bureau of Pollution Control, Department of Environmental Quality has received a permit application from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to operate a solid waste disposal facility in northeast Hancock County, and now is soliciting public comments about the project.

The facility will be used to dispose of household and commercial wastes. The proposed site, consisting of 75.7 acres is located approximately two miles east of Mississippi Highway 603, directly south of Rocky Hill Road in the Standard Community in Section 16, Township 6 South, Range 14 West.

The staff of the Environmental Quality Permit Board has evaluated the environmental impact of this project, and has determined that with the environmental constraints and limitations set forth within the proposed permit that the operation of this landfill will not pose a threat to the environment.

However, before proceeding any further with the permit evaluation process, the staff is asking that anyone wishing to comment upon or object to the proposed determinations should submit comments in writing to the Bureau by August 22.

All comments received by that date will be considered in the formulation of a final determination regarding the application. If a significant degree of public interest is shown a public hearing will be held.

Comments made to the Bureau should be limited to environmental impact. Any comments relative to zoning or economic and social impacts are within the jurisdiction of local zoning and planning authorities and should be addressed to them.

To make comments or to request additional details about the application write or call Mark Williams, Bureau of Pollution Control, Department of Environmental Quality, P.O. Box 10385, Jackson, Ms. 39289-0385, telephone 961-5171.

Hunter education offered at library

Three hunter education classes are being offered at the Hancock County-Bay St. Louis Public Library during August and September.

The classes will meet from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. weeknights with day classes on Saturdays in the conference room at the back of the library.

Instructor Antoine Boyd said pre-registration is required because a minimum of 10 students is needed before a class can be conducted.

"At the beginning of each hunting season, many hunters schedule out-of state hunting trips and wait until the last minute to take a hunter's education class," Boyd said.

"Many times, they are inconvenienced by having to travel out of the county to take the course. Plan ahead now for that trip by taking one of the three scheduled courses."

Youngsters born on or after Jan. 1, 1972, are required by law to successfully complete a hunter's education course before purchasing a hunting license.

Boyd said the first course being offered in August, which meets Aug. 21, 23, 24 and 25, would be the most convenient session for people who want to take the course but will be attending school.

He also recommends the course for younger people who are not hunters and for women.

"Every year, in-home accidents occur with improper handling and storage of firearms. Also, many accidents involve friends and relatives in other homes," he said.

"If you don't have firearms and have youngsters, enroll them now, because the homes of their friends may have firearms."

He also stated that due to the increase in crime, many women are carrying guns, even though not all of them are familiar with their use.

"Come learn how to store them safely and clean and handle your firearms correctly and safely. Hunter education is not just for the hunter anymore."

It has grown to suit the needs of the community," Boyd said. He also urges experienced hunters to take the course.

"Many experienced hunters say, 'I don't need that course; I've hunted all my life.' But how safe are you, really? Do you unload that firearm before crossing through a fence? Do you know what zone of fire is and how to use it, or what carrying capacity is and how it affects wildlife?"

"Come and refresh your safety skills. You may just learn something that some day may save your life or the life of another hunter."

The schedule of classes and telephone number for registration follow below.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Have you noticed how the smiles of boys and girls are beginning to fade like summer tans as vacation time is rapidly coming to a close.

I can recall my school days when summer appeared to fly by and school days were as if they would never end.

Holidays seemed to have been only a few when I was in school. We had Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Years, Mardi Gras and Easter to look forward to as holidays.

We started school the Wednesday after Labor Day and got out school about May 30.

With schools opening within the next two weeks, some parents are in the process of purchasing clothing and school supplies for their children.

Shopping can be very challenging as many parents, for various reasons, wait until the last minute.

We wish everyone luck in seeking their children's clothing and supplies for the coming school year.

All students are urged to stay in school, as it is one of the most important times of their lives.

What a person learns during their school age years will remain with them throughout their lives.

A very good education is everything in today's world.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Chamber Pot will be held on Monday from noon until 2 p.m. at the Hancock County Civic Center, Longfellow Road.

A Red Beans and Rice dinner will be on tap at $2 and a business card per person.

The first Chamber Pot was held several months ago and was very successful with about 100 persons attending.

It is hoped there will be a larger turnout on Monday. So we hope to see you at the Civic Center (Fairgrounds) on Monday at noon.

FROM THE SENATE

By U.S. Senator Trent Lott

Do we need more policemen on our streets? If you have ever been assaulted, burglarized or even worse, you would probably agree with most Americans that we do.

But getting young men and women to join the force is becoming increasingly difficult. For most law enforcement officers, the pay is low and the hours are long. A police officer's day doesn't end at 5 p.m. He goes home only when the streets are safe and secure.

Then there is the danger factor. Like our fireman, our "men in blue" put their lives on the line every day. Over the past ten years, 1,525 police officers have been killed in the line of duty. That's one every 57 hours. And more than 200,000 have been injured on the job. Not exactly what most young people are searching for in the want-ads.

So how do we attract new recruits?

I have cosponsored a bill designed to create a national "Police Corps" of young college graduates.

The Police Corps Act of 1989 would, in effect, trade scholarships for police service. Participating students would get federally guaranteed loans for their education, then have up to $40,000 repaid by the government once they complete four years in the state police or a local police department in the participating state.

Cadets would begin training after their third year of college and receive "rookie" pay during their four year commitment. However, the hope is that many of these trained men and women would continue their law enforcement career well after that commitment expired.

The idea was developed in 1982 by a crime study group headed by a New York City lawyer and a Philadelphia police expert. The City of Memphis has a similar version of this idea already in place.

This particular measure is designed to bolster the strength of state and local police forces by 22 percent while creating a new brand of college-educated officers to cope with gang warfare and other special challenges. Approximately 100,000 officers would be added to the 480,000 on the job today.

Talent is one consideration, but sheer numbers is another. In 1951, there were about three police officers for every reported violent crime. Today the reverse is true. For every officer, there is an average of 3.1 violent crimes committed. That data would indicate that our police departments need reinforcing.

Support for the idea is widespread. Law enforcement groups like the national Order of Police and the National Association of Police Organizations have already endorsed the concept. And many members of Congress are doing the same. Liberals and conservatives are lining up to lend their support. One House member called it a "survival issue," not an ideological one.

If we expect our police to protect us, and we do, we must provide them with the resources, the technology, and the manpower to do the job. This is one way to do it.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Twenty-one years ago when I covered his trial at Meridian, Thomas Albert Tarrants III was a young Klan terrorist, called by the FBI "one of the most dangerous men in Mississippi."

Tarrants was convicted and sentenced to serve 30 years at Parchman Penitentiary for attempting to plant a bomb at the home of a prominent Jewish businessman in Meridian.

A team of police officers and FBI agents had been waiting in ambush for Tarrants when he arrived at the Meridian residence shortly after midnight on June 29, 1968. Riding in the automobile with Tarrants was a fellow Klan terrorist, a 26 year old Jackson school teacher named Kathy Ainsworth.

After a wild shootout and chase, Ainsworth was killed and the 20 year old Tarrants was almost fatally wounded. Also badly wounded was a policeman Tarrants had machined-gunned in the bloody gun battle.

The story was sensational, made even more so by allegations in The Los Angeles Times that Tarrants had been lured into an FBI trap set by two Meridian Klansmen induced with $80,000 in reward money raised by the Jewish community. Later, the FBI denied the L.A. Times report.

Tarrants' conviction and sentence the day before Thanksgiving in 1968 is considered by the FBI as the event that finally broke the back of the Mississippi-born White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

That was not the last to be heard of Tarrants, however. Less than a year after he went off to Parchman, Tarrants escaped with two other inmates, helped by Klan friends on the outside.

Two days later, an assault team of FBI agents and state highway patrolmen recaptured Tarrants and one other inmate, killing the other who was on lookout at their well-armed hideout in an abandoned farm house near the Jackson airport.

Back at Parchman, Tarrants was tossed into a 6 by 9 maximum security cell, where he was told he would stay for the rest of his time at Parchman. There in the cramped cell reading the New Testament, he had a remarkable religious experience.

He became a born again Christian and renounced his radical right-wing, racist philosophy. "A light came on inside of me," he would say later.

Prison officials become convinced that Tarrants' conversion was genuine. After three years in his solitary cell he was given a job as a clerk in the chaplain's office and eventually moved into a minimum security camp.

The story got out to area newspapers of the spectacular change that had taken place in the former Klan terrorist. Once again Tarrants became something of a media celebrity as he was widely quoted in statements openly repudiating his violent past.

Among a network of contacts Tarrants developed were such ex-prisoner converts as Watergate figure Charles Colson and former Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver.

With an impressive list of recommendations supporting his early release under a new state law, Tarrants was paroled from Parchman by then Gov. Cliff Finch in 1976, eight years after he had been sent to the Delta prison institution.

Tarrants then studied Greek at the University of Mississippi, and in 1979, his book, "The Conversion of a Klansman" was published. Then the trail of Thomas Albert Tarrants III faded out.

I wondered what had happened to Tarrants until I ran across a recent feature story about him in the Richmond, Va. Times-Dispatch.

Tarrants now lives in a Virginia suburb with his wife, a member of a wealthy North Carolina family, and their two children. He is a prosperous real estate investment broker and dedicated worker in Christian evangelism.

The story related that the onetime Klan terrorist in his aviator-style glasses, conservative pinstripes or classic tweeds "looks more like a hometown banker than a felon who cannot vote."

Tarrants said that he went through times of "very profound feelings of guilt and remorse" during his years of soul searching. But now, he said, he does not want his guilt to keep him from doing evangelical works.

"The Klansman from Mississippi - that's not really where I am anymore. That's where I was 25 years ago," he said.

The conversion of Tommy Tarrants, it seems, is for real.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator Thad Cochran

Senator pledges support for community college program

Senator Thad Cochran today pledged his support for a bill that would create a national "Police Corps" of young college graduates.

Cochran, a member of the Senate Education Panel, said the bill would create a national "Police Corps" of young college graduates. The bill would create a national "Police Corps" of young college graduates.

Cochran said he expects the bill to be included in legislation to extend the federal vocational education act.

He told the trustees that earlier this week, the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee had favorably reported bills containing his proposal for model literacy centers and the President's initiatives to recognize and reward excellence in the nation's schools.

He pointed out that earlier this year, he held hearings in Jackson and at Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College here on his "Tech-Prep" bill, which works a coordinated program in vocational and technical education, linking in the last two years of secondary school with two years of community college study.

The senator said he expects this concept to be included in legislation to extend the federal vocational education act. He told the trustees that earlier this week, the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee had favorably reported bills containing his proposal for model literacy centers and the President's initiatives to recognize and reward excellence in the nation's schools.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Supportive neighbors, police make vandals' deeds bearable

Dear Editor,

The devil and his paint were quite evident over the weekend (Aug. 6).

In my case, someone came to my Waveland home and well-lighted yard and eggs filled with yellow paint were thrown on my auto.

The four yellow paint-filled eggs were smashed against the back window, the driver's side window, windshield and just smashed over the top of the auto. It was quite upsetting to look out to see my auto yellow paint covered—a shock.

I called neighbors and the Waveland Police. The officers came out to investigate and do a report.

What a nice feeling to be assured by this officer that all would be done to help find this person or persons responsible for the paint throwing.

We never know when we will need a policeman. I want to express my thanks to this Waveland policeman and the Waveland Police Department.

It is sad to think one can't express an opinion or visit the sick in the hospital or whatever reason caused someone to want to retaliate with the slinging of paint. Where is all this love we should feel?

I want to thank everyone, the friends, neighbors and strangers who came to express their heartfelt feeling toward this evil one who threw the yellow paint on my auto.

There is good to overcome the few bad, evil paint-filled egg throwers.

Thanks to all of you for your help and kindness.

Sincerely,
Louisa Brew

ON PATROL

VEHICLE RECOVERED

Two arrests have been made in connection with the theft of an automobile in Bay St. Louis.

Jason Garcia, 18, of Pearlinton and a 17-year-old juvenile were arrested at Garcia's residence, according to Bay Police Detective Shane Corr.

The arrests were made on warrants served by Bay Police Sergeant Don Oco with assistance from the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, according to Corr.

The vehicle, stolen from the parking lot of Jitney Jungle in Bay St. Louis, was recovered in St. Tammany Parish, Louisiana. Corr and St. Tammany Parish Sheriff's officers were led to the vehicle by Garcia, Corr said.

EGG VANDALISM

A Waveland residents car was bombed by paint-filled eggshells early Monday morning while it sat under a shed in her yard.

Louisa Brew reported to Waveland Police that the eggs, drained of their contents and filled with yellow paint and the hole taped over, had been thrown onto her car sometime after midnight.

According to Brew, someone reported seeing a white car with three people driving away from her house during the time the incident occurred.

Paint from the eggs covered the front windshield, the window on the driver's side, and the back windshield of the 1988 Chrysler.

"The thing that gets me is the lights were on in the yard and I didn't hear anything," Brew said.

Vandals also broke a glass door at Frank's Photo and Frame Shop Sunday night, according to Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn.

AUTO RECOVERED

The latest vehicle stolen in a recent rash of auto thefts was recovered by Waveland Police hidden less than half-a-mile from where it was stolen.

The 1985 Isuzu Trooper, reported stolen from a residence on Sears Avenue Sunday morning, was discovered that evening in a wooded area along the CSX Railroad track off South Street.

According to Police Donald Dorn, the owners said the keys had been left in the automobile. The vehicle was recovered by Officer Danny Carter after it was reported by someone who had seen it while walking along the railway.

Numerous vehicles have been stolen in recent weeks, apparently by teenagers just for joy rides. Most have been recovered shortly after they were taken, Dorn said.

Cuevas also commented on the use of an executive session in discussing who would fill the position. A city or county government board has the right, under state law, to discuss certain items in private session; those items include personnel.

"We would probably never have gotten into the executive session if it had not been for the deadline," he said.

dent of Peoples Federal, notified the authors of the article and financial service firm which provided the information of the error and requested a retraction.

The Wednesday Wall Street Journal stated in a story titled, "Corrections and Amplifications," "Peoples Federal Savings Bank, Bay St. Louis, Miss., had a tangible capital ratio of 3.85% as of March 31, 1989. These thrifts reported their capital position incorrectly in filings of federal regulators, and the erroneous data was listed in a table that ran in Monday's editions."

The thrift-rescue legislation passed by Congress requires savings and loans to immediately have tangible capital equal to 1.5% of their assets.

Treutel said, "A report made to the Federal Home Loan Bank made by us was in error when a figure was entered into a wrong column. We made a correction shortly thereafter and apparently the correction had not reached the firm of Sheshunoff & Company from whom the Wall Street Journal had obtained the information for the article."

"Peoples Federal's tangible capital on March 31, 1989 was 3.83%, well above the federal minimum requirement and this figure increased to over 4.25% as of June 30, 1989," Treutel added.

Treutel emphasized the fact that Peoples Federal, which will be 100 years old in 1990, has never had any problems meeting any Federal Home Bank's requirements.

Peoples Federal's pretax earnings for the current year ending June 30, 1989 exceeded one quarter of a million dollars, Treutel stated.

THIS LAND IS YOUR LAND

A suggested list for preserving our land

We have been told by historians that Indian tribes that inhabited this land believed the earth was a gift from the Creator and for the use of ALL the people. In a way this is true.

We should guard well our heritage to keep it safe, beautiful and peaceful. We have this responsibility! First we must ask ourselves what we really want. Make a list.

Does your list include:
Good, potable drinking water
Clean unpolluted air
Clean beaches

Uncluttered grounds free from litter

Safety - security - peace of mind

A stable economy

Quiet - freedom from noise pollution

Friendships

Good neighbors

A balance in time for work and leisure

Your list may vary from mine, but knowledge of exactly what you want from your land is the first step toward getting it! First you can decide what you personally - can do toward reaching your goal. Then consult your Yellow Pages and your city and county officials and your Chamber of Commerce.

Set a good example by keeping your surroundings clean and attractive, observe the speed limits, the animal regulations and restrictions and follow that time-tested Golden Rule simply "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Next week we'll write about 'Conservation' and Newspapers.

Road contractor caused Lower Bay Road tar spill

BY D.C. HARVILL

A tar-like substance found coating two stretches of ditch on Lower Bay Road near Port Bienville Industrial Park apparently came from a road surfacing contractor working for Hancock County.

The thick, black material which coated plants growing in the ditches had been dumped by the contractor, McQueen Construction, according to County Engineer Larry Seal.

The contractor had to lease an asphalt distributing machine after the engine blew up in his own machine. The leased machine contained the tar-like substance, Seal said.

"The machine had what we thought was a small amount of asphalt in it and he dumped it in the ditch. We didn't anticipate any problems, but, after a heavy rain, the asphalt floated to the top," Seal said.

Seal was prompted to investigate the situation after getting a call from the State Aid Division, he said.

"I call Bob Rogers with the Pollution Control Commission. He told me he had received four calls relative to the problem. When he told me that I said 'I had better go look at it.'

"I went down there and it was a real problem," Seal said.

The substance appears to be a primer used before a road is asphalted, a material not included in the county's contract for resurfacing of Lower Bay Road, according to Seal.

"I ascertained to the best of my ability that it had not left the confines of the ditch.

"I walked down a natural drain in the area that goes tow-

MHP fines reach high

Revenue collected by Mississippi counties in fines from citations issued by troopers of the Mississippi Highway Patrol reached an all-time high of $9.1 million in 1988.

A report prepared in mid-June shows that the 1988 figure is $2.2 million higher than the $6.9 million in fines collected by counties from Highway Patrol-issued tickets in 1987.

Col. David Huggins, assistant commissioner of public safety and Highway Patrol chief, said, "A trooper works in a county to protect life and property by enforcing traffic and felony laws.

The officer's efforts benefit the county since the larger portion of the money collected in fines from Highway Patrol-issued citations remains in the individual county to provide local services or it is directed into assessment-sponsored programs.

ard the (Pearl) river, but couldn't find any indication that it was going toward the river," Seal said.

As directed by Rogers', the contractor blotted one of the sections of ditch with hay Friday. The person who did the clean-up was not the same man who dumped the material, however, and did not know there were two sections, Seal said.

The contractor planned to clean up the second section Wednesday, according to Seal.

"I don't think it is overly significant, but it is significant because it shouldn't have happened," Seal said.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Who says you need an oven to create mouth watering meals, from simple to sumptuous? Not Maggie Monahan, who promptly sets out to prove her point in more than 200 ways!

Welcome news to those who grow hot under the collar just at the thought of turning on the oven and heating up the kitchen these sweltering summer days, is Monahan's offbeat cookbook, Off the Top of My Stove, just published by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas, (soft cover, $14.95).

It's a collection of delicious dishes, mostly quickly cooked, some a bit more time-consuming, the recipes interspersed with hints on cooking techniques along with literary quips and quotes.

It all came about after Monahan, a former restaurant owner, was asked by a top TV post-production company in Los Angeles to serve as chef for their client kitchen—in which they had somehow neglected to install an oven!

On with the thinking cap and the skillet and pots—and the cookbook! Especially useful to the top-stove cook—or any other, for that matter—are the sections on those old reliables, rice and pasta, basis for many an excellent dish.

Tasty variations on the pasta theme, with its many different types, are a feature of the book.

Just about my favorite, I think, is this one:

VERMICELLI WITH MUSHROOMS AND PROSCIUTTO

(Vermicelli, thinner than thin spaghetti, and twist shells are my favorite pasta varieties.)

3 cups sliced fresh mushrooms

1/2 medium bell (green) pepper, in strips

1/4 cup butter or margarine

2 cups Prosciutto (Italian ham) in strips

1/4 cup snipped parsley

1 tsp. dried basil, crushed

1/2 tsp. pepper

10 oz. hot cooked vermicelli

Parmesan cheese

Instead of the prosciutto, which is quite salty, I used boiled ham, because I didn't have the other on hand, and didn't feel in the mood for a special trip to the store, and didn't want to have all that much salt, anyway, in the interest of health, but, suit yourself.

At any rate, in a saucepan, cook the mushrooms and green pepper strips in the butter or margarine over medium heat for 5 minutes or until tender. Add the ham, parsley, basil and salt and pepper to taste.

Toss the mushroom-ham mixture into the hot cooked pasta and serve at once with Parmesan cheese. (Four servings).

GOOD FOOD BUYS

Simple rules help ensure safe foods

Is it a mistake to put hot foods in a cold refrigerator? Can frozen foods make you ill if they're thawed and then frozen again? Why do people sometimes get sick from eating pork?

If you have ever asked any of these questions, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has some facts that can be helpful to you in keeping foods safe for your family and preventing illness from "food poisoning."

Foods can cause illness when they contain a disease-producing agent—such as bacteria or toxin-forming mold.

Illness does not always occur from contaminated food. However, if a susceptible person—such as an infant, an elderly person, someone incapacitated by another illness, or sometimes even someone seemingly healthy—eats enough food which contains disease-producing agents, illness can result.

Bacterial contamination of foods can be reduced through either cooking or refrigeration. Both of these processes retard the growth of disease-producing bacteria.

To grow and reproduce, bacteria need three things: moisture, warmth and a source of food. If any of these are missing, bacteria will not grow.

When food is refrigerated, warmth is lacking, and thus bacteria growth is retarded. Most bacteria are not killed by refrigeration. But refrigeration does stop them from multiplying. It also retards and ability of bacteria to produce a toxin, or poison.

On the other hand, cooking foods at high temperature not only retards bacteria growth, but also kills bacteria.

Which kinds of foods require refrigeration? Perishable food products including potentially hazardous foods, require refrigeration.

The potentially hazardous foods are those that consist in whole or in part of milk or milk products, eggs, meat, poultry, fish and shellfish. These include such products as cream pies, custards, potato salad and meat salads (tuna, chicken, etc.).

It is important that all such foods be kept refrigerated. Your responsibility for this begins in the store.

You should:

1) Buy perishable foods—including those that are potentially hazardous—in small quantities, so you will not keep them too long before use.

2) If you're doing other shopping, make the supermarket the last stop, and take foods home immediately.

3) Always put refrigerated and frozen foods in your shopping basket last.

Refrigeration rules to remember at home:

1) Put foods in the refrigerator as soon as you get home.

2) Never leave leftovers on the table after a meal, but store them in the refrigerator immediately.

3) Make sure your refrigerator temperature is cold enough to keep foods safe.

4) Store foods in a small, shallow low container. The more surface that is exposed to the cold, the faster the food will cool.

5) Keep food containers covered so that food particles from the shelf above will not fall into foods stored below.

Many foods can be kept in the refrigerator for several weeks, but since refrigeration does not kill bacteria (only retards its growth), it is wise to use perishable foods within a reasonable short period of time.

Skim milk provides more calcium

By Traci M. Scott
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Skim milk provides more calcium per serving than whole milk, while also providing more essential nutrients.

Once-for-ounce fat contains 2.25 times more calories than starch, sugar or pure protein. The American Heart Association recommends 30 percent of the calories come from fat. Typical Americans consume 37 to 45 percent of their calories from fats.

"Anyway to help reduce the fat content in a diet is making a contribution to reducing the total amount of fat in the diet," said Melissa Mixon, human nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

There are basically four different types of fluid milk: whole milk with nearly 3.5 percent fat, low-fat milk with 2 percent fat, low-fat with 1 percent fat and skim milk, which has less than 1 percent milk fat.

Milk is nature's most nearly perfect food because chemically, milk is a balanced mixture of proteins, fats, carbohydrates, salts and water, said Dr. Joe T. Cardwell, professor in the dairy science department at Mississippi State University.

"Growing consumer demands lead scientists at MSU to the development of a skim milk with a more acceptable flavor," said Cardwell.

Through a special process, called double-standardization, MSU scientists were able to lower the fat and increase the protein in a skim milk that satisfied the consumer.

"For the weight-conscious, calorie-conscious woman concerned about osteoporosis, skim milk offers an economical source of calcium," Mixon said.

"Skim milk supplies almost twice as much calcium per calorie with only 60 percent of the calories of whole milk," Mixon said. "With the fat taken out of skim milk, there are more of the nutritional components per cup."

"If two cups of whole milk are consumed, then the calcium received will be 582 milligrams," Mixon said. "When the equivalent amount of calcium in skim milk is consumed, then the amount of calcium received is 1,065 milligrams. Whole milk contains 150 calories per cup, while skim milk contains a mere 85 calories per cup."

If considering skim milk, a gradual weaning will be easier for those who are used to drinking whole milk.

"Combine whole milk with skim milk and increase the amount of skim milk gradually or switch from a higher fat percent milk to a lower percent milk, and slowly get used to skim milk," Mixon said. "Once used to skim milk, whole milk will taste more like cream."

CARROTS DELUXE

6 medium carrots, pared in thin strips

1 tablespoon margarine

1 tablespoon chopped chives

1 tablespoon chopped parsley

1 tablespoon lemon juice

2 tablespoons water

Melt margarine in a saucepan; add lemon juice.

Arrange carrots in layers in a baking dish.

Between each layer pour in the lemon juice and margarine mixture and sprinkle with chives and parsley. Add the water.

Cover and bake at 350°F until the carrots are tender, about 50 minutes.

Yield: 4 servings

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1989-1B

SECTION B

Time Out

By Dena Bisnette

One morning this week, as I was driving to work, the announcer on the car radio said it was "National Umpires Week."

Now, just the idea that anybody would want to honor umpires in general strikes me as funny.

I know professional baseball umpires have a "Hall of Fame" designation, but professional umpires and referees in any sport are a special class. They'd better know what they're doing when they call a play or they'll soon be out of work.

But, umpires in general take a lot of abuse from the crowd, and that's why I think it's unusual and nice that anyone would want to honor them.

Some of these guys, especially on lower levels like T-ball and little league, give up much of their free time to help youngsters have fun. Think about that before you yell at them about their eyesight or ancestry.

Congratulations to Amy VanCalsem of Pass Christian on her barrel racing performance during the fourth annual Budweiser Super Pro Rodeo this past weekend.

VanCalsem finished second in her event on the opening night of the rodeo. As far as I know, she was the only local competitor who did well that night.

Entries are being taken for a couple of fishing events elsewhere on the Gulf Coast, but I know there are some fishermen so fond of the sport they'll go almost anywhere to try the waters.

For information on the 10th annual Gulf Coast Fisherman's Tournament, scheduled for Labor Day Weekend, call 863-7711.

To find out about the fourth annual Jackson County Shrine Club Open Bass Tournament, set for Oct. 7 at Indian Point Resort in Gautier, call 872-1966 or 497-3782.

Tryouts for the Coke Express Under-19 State Select Soccer Team will begin at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the William Carey on the Coast soccer field.

For more information, contact Doug Stovall at 896-6978.

Remember last year when the Hancock County Lawmen's Association sponsored a boxing card out at the county fairgrounds?

For anybody still following the boxers who were here that night, two of them will be featured Friday night on a Budweiser Knockout pro boxing card at Point Cadet Plaza. They include Chad Parker, now 8-0 in his pro career, and Rusty Derouen, now 9-0.

The show begins at 7:30 p.m. The headliner fight features Donald "Tiger" Stokes of Moss Point and is scheduled for eight rounds, with the other six bouts set up for six rounds each.

The next Gulf Coast Running Club event is a Community Appreciation 5K and One-mile Run/walk Aug. 19 at 8 a.m.

The event, co-sponsored by Gulfport Job Corps, will begin at the job corps office at 33rd and 20th Streets. Registration info is available from Lindo Sullivan at 832-6071 or Coach James at 864-9691.

Another three sessions of hunter education classes have been set up at the Bay St. Louis Public Library. They include Aug. 21 and 23-24; Sept. 5 and 7-9; and Sept. 19 and 21-23. All are from 6-9 p.m.

More details are printed elsewhere in The Sea Coast Echo, but pre-registration is available from Antoine Boyd at 467-5108 after 5 p.m.

On Sunday, Cycles Plus Bicycle Club will sponsor an "Orange Grove Special," a 45-mile ride beginning at Norwood Village on US-49. Riders will meet at the shopping center at 8 a.m.

In addition, the club is considering setting up some Saturday rides if enough cyclists are interested. Call Cycles Plus at 467-1706 for more information.

Pass youngster learns new sport, rides right to national competition

BY DENA BISNETTE

When 13-year-old Bryan Carter of Pass Christian joined a bicycle club in May, some of the other members were concerned about how well a smaller rider could keep up.

Carter not only kept up with the group; he passed it. This weekend, he is going to compete in the Junior National Cycling Championship at the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Carter qualified for the nationals last month after competing in district qualifying races at Meridian; he said the road race was 33K, or about 19 miles. He also won time trials in Columbia, with a time of 38:15 for 12 miles.

The young cyclist is the only one in his age group, 13-14, who will represent Mississippi in the Junior Nationals. Because he is so new to cycling, Carter said he would "be happy with the top 10" instead of aiming at a national title.

"This year, it's for fun and experience," added the teenager, who obtained a U.S. Cycling Federation license to compete shortly after beginning the sport.

However, he will have to make some adjustments before the four-day competition begins Saturday. Carter has been racing with adults, using adult equipment.

For the junior nationals, he will have to adjust to the gear requirements the U.S. Cycling Federation prescribes for his age division. His bike will be checked just a few minutes before the race begins to make certain it meets specifications.

Although he has been riding bikes for a long time, Carter said he had not seriously considered racing until two adult riders, Karen and David Sawyer, told him they would serve as his sponsors in the Cycles Plus Bicycle Club.

His mother, Barbara Carter, explained that she and his father, Dr. Thad Carter, do not ride, but the Cycles Plus rules require that any rider under age 18 have an adult companion.

"Karen and David have just been wonderful. He has learned a lot from them," she added.

Carter, an eighth grader at St. Stanislaus, explained that he has always been interested in athletics and the racing aspect of cycling appealed to him.

"I suppose racing is a little bit more competitive," he said, explaining that in addition to learning about the sport from reading cycling publications and riding with the club, he has been watching videotapes of major races, including the international Tour de France.

"You can learn a lot of tactics from tapes. I can watch a rider lean a particular way, for example, and the next time I'm in that situation, I know what to do."

He has also discovered that bicycling has a strong potential for improving his performance in other sports, including running and soccer.

"I used to jog a lot and I play soccer at school. I've done some runs but I've found I like biking better," Carter said.

Carter plans to continue soccer this year and is interested in seeing the effect of the physical development biking has caused in his legs, particularly his thighs.

He has already tested its complimentary effects on running, improving his time by about 20 percent.

"I've gone from about 24 to 19 minutes in the 5K," he said.

BRYAN CARTER

His new sport has also resulted in a health benefit he had not expected from it, which has delighted his mother and helped to make her an even more supportive fan of cycling.

"I have asthma. It has been some problem, but I've learned to overcome it," Carter said. "Biking has made my lungs stronger."

According to his mother, the teenager's ability to use his lungs efficiently has about doubled since May.

Bicycle racing is also a sport where Carter's relatively small size, four feet, 11 inches and 101 pounds, becomes an advantage.

Linda Reed, one of the club's sponsors, explained how size works.

"Small has its advantages because when Bryan finishes, he's part of the bike. There's a lot less wind drag on a smaller rider," she said.

Because Carter is so new to the sport, he is not certain of his goals after the national competition. However, the U.S. Junior Olympics facility is in Colorado Springs, and he hopes to be able to visit it before returning home.

Looking ahead to his future in the sport, Carter said, "Maybe the Junior Olympics, if they have cycling."

Post 139 dropped from state tourney

BY DENA BISNETTE

Bay St. Louis American Legion Post 139's baseball team has dropped out of state competition following a 4-3 loss to the Jackson Post 1 Bombers.

The loss Saturday was Post 139's second in the double elimination tournament. In the tournament opener, the Bay team played 13 innings against Booneville, finally breaking a tie only to lose 9-4.

Coach Frank Perniciaro said he found that his team was younger and smaller in general than many of the other ten teams participating in the event, which was played at Pontotoc.

"We ended up playing against a lot of junior college players, but I thought we did pretty well," Perniciaro said. In the Jackson Game, Post 139 did well on the mound and on the field but lacked the power hitting needed to win, the coach said.

Will Seymour pitched all nine innings, striking out eight batters while walking three and yielding only five base hits.

One of the batters Post 139 was unable to stop was Troy Bayhiss, a Pensacola Junior College player, who led Post 1 in hitting with a double and a home run.

Leading hitters for Post 139 included Cedric Smith, with two hits and an RBI; Thomas Brink with one hit; Calvin Thigpen with one hit and an RBI; and Mike Marshall with a double.

MR. MISSISSIPPI—Charles Hawkins of Waveland has won his second consecutive Mr. Mississippi title in both the light heavy-weight open division competition and overall competition. Hawkins, who had a cast removed from a broken foot in order to participate in the bodybuilding meet at Jackson, said he was the first to win two Mr. Mississippi overall titles consecutively. His injury has put him out of competition for the rest of the year but he plans to continue his anti-drug abuse work with local children. (Echo staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Sports and fitness institute launched

The Mississippi Institute for Physical Fitness and Sports has been established to promote participatory sports, health and fitness activities for Mississippians of all ages and interests.

The Institute was created to support existing activities that promote healthier lifestyles and to initiate programs and events to meet new sports and fitness needs.

"Mississippians have always exhibited a zeal for life, often expressed in athletic or physical ways," said Lee Dukes, one of the Institute's founders.

"The publications and programs of the Institute will focus on a broader sharing of information and experiences, with the goal of improving our quality of life," he said.

The voice of the Institute is "SportsQuest," a monthly magazine that provides news, features and data for a broad range of Mississippi sporting and health enthusiasts.

"Participation in sports and health activities continues to grow in Mississippi," said David Crews, also a founder of the Institute.

"Through Sportsquest, individuals and organizations can promote their activity, event or cause. The magazine is much more than a reporting of results. It is an advocate for those promoting a healthy, active lifestyle," he said.

Freshwater diversion project clears primary obstacle

Rep. Larkin Smith has announced that a 75-25 cost-sharing plan has been approved for the Mississippi-Louisiana Estuarine Area Development Project, freshwater diversion project.

Cost sharing had been the chief obstacle to the plan because the state of Mississippi and Louisiana objected to federal funds' recommendation that it be funded on a 50 percent federal, 50 percent state basis.

The Bush administration informed Smith on Wednesday that the Office of Management and Budget had agreed to the 75-25 plan for the project. So far, $5.5 million in federal funds have been allocated for preconstruction engineering and design. In addition, $500,000 is included in the FY 1990 Water Resources Development Bill, which has passed the House.

Next year, the administration will request whatever funding is necessary for construction in FY 1991 (which begins Oct. 1, 1990).

Mississippi has appropriated its portion of the funding ($3 million); all that remains is a ($14.3 million) appropriation from the state of Louisiana.

The decision sets the stage for progress on the project under the following schedule:

* June 1990: Design phase due to be completed.

* August 90: Construction begins.

* FY 91 (Oct. 90): Bulk of project funding.

The purpose of the project is to build a freshwater diversion structure that would provide intermittent flows of Mississippi River water into Lake Pontchartrain, Lake Borne and the Mississippi Sound. It is designed to reduce wetlands loss and boost oyster, shellfish and finfish productivity throughout the area.

"Nothing can have the impact on improving our seafood industry like the introduction of fresh water, which once made us the seafood capital of the world," Smith said.

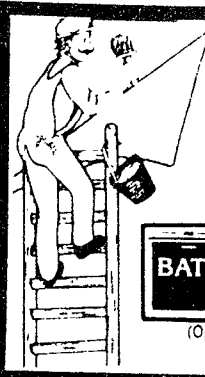

"This will be a major shot in the arm for the commercial shrimping and oyster industries, and it will also benefit recreational fishing."

college ranks at PRC.

"Everybody I've talked to has spoken highly of the junior college football program," he said. "It's going to be a big difference."

For his part, Mike Nelson, the Wildcats' head coach is glad to have the added help. "I think he's going to make a big difference," Nelson said about having a full-time assistant to look over the defensive secondary.

Humphrey's said he is looking forward to learning from the Cats' experienced staff and hopes he can bring in a new perspective.

SportsQuest features a statewide calendar of fitness and sports events, summaries of recent events, and timely features on a variety of health and fitness topics.

"Our focus is on Mississippi and Mississippians," Crews said. "You won't find coverage of the NBA or NFL here. The daily newspapers and national media provide that information. What you will find is information on running, bicycling, weightlifting, tennis, golf, gymnastics, rifle and pistol, rugby, weightlifting, aerobics, swimming, soccer, triathloning and more than 25 other sports that are active in our state."

The SportsQuest Hotline has been created to facilitate the sharing of information. "Organizations or individuals can call us to report upcoming or recently-completed events," Dukes said.

"We also want copies of entry forms, brochures and other materials that can be sent to Institute members upon request."

The Sportsquest Hotline number is 354-0995 in the Jackson area, or 800-748-9216 statewide.

In addition to its activities in the area of athletics, the Institute actively supports the expansion of physical education and health promotion programs in our state's schools.

The Institute serves as a resource for businesses and industries interested in promoting worksite health promotion and fitness programs.

Slow down and catch more bass

Slow down, you're moving too fast.

You may remember these words of advice from a popular song years ago, but they're just as important today—especially to bass fishermen.

"We're all fishing too fast," says Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member Charlie Reed, winner of the 1986 Bass Masters Classic, "and as a result, we're passing right over fish we could catch."

"If you slow down your fishing, you'll keep your lure in the strike zone longer and that always increases your chances of getting a hit. Depending on water clarity, I'd say the actual striking zone of a bass is normally only a foot or less. That's why accurate casting to specific targets is so important, but once you're at that target you need to keep the lure there."

For years, bass fishermen have tried to slow their fishing, but the run-and-gun style of tournament action makes it difficult. Now, however, Reed sees the trend to slower fishing becoming stronger and more widespread.

"I honestly think we're fishing for smarter bass today than we were several years ago," he says. "The bass have become conditioned to seeing lures and the constant pressure has made them more wary."

"I have fish are looking at lures more carefully because the moment of the time they're striking isn't longer, not impulse or anger."

One way anglers traditionally slow the fish down is by changing lures. Reed, for example, will fish a slow-moving lure worked with a slow motion and used with a slow motion pump.

Now, says the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member, anglers are using a variety of lures to slow the fish down. There are lures in the market with a plastic-coated head that falls as slowly as one foot every three seconds. Normally, jugs fall at the rate of one foot every second.

When anglers are suspended in the water, they can see the lures and the fish are more likely to strike them.

Anglers who are not in the water can also slow the fish down. Reed says that he has seen a lot of fish that have been caught by anglers who are not in the water. He says that he has seen a lot of fish that have been caught by anglers who are not in the water.

'Magic' Johnson receives honorary doctorate from Rust

Earvin (Magic) Johnson, National Basketball Association "superstar" and UNCF special ambassador, will become "Dr. Johnson" when Rust College confers upon him an honorary doctor of philosophy degree in humanities. He will receive the degree during Rust College's opening convocation on Sept. 7.

"Johnson earned the degree in recognition of his dedication and commitment to the United Negro College Fund and the nation's 42 historically black member colleges and universities," said Dr. W. A. McMillan, president of Rust College.

Since 1986, he has sponsored annual all-star basketball games and black tie dinner dances as fundraisers of UNCF. Currently these efforts have raised more than $1.5 million.

While his commitment to education deserves recognition, so does his commitment to professional basketball. Since his rookie year, Johnson has led the Los Angeles Lakers (NBA) to five world championships. He has been named championship series 'Most Valuable Player' three times.

Making tracks

Fitness trend has Hancock residents walking in record numbers

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The winding maze of asphalt fronting Hancock Medical Center on US-90 has become increasingly popular with local residents.

For the weight and health-conscious, the half-mile walking track has been the inspiration for new exercise programs. It is also a place for friends and relatives to meet to encourage one another to become acquainted with a simple exercise.

Quite the family affair—husbands, wives, parents and children round the fitness trail together.

An impromptu survey Sunday night found the following 'walkers':

—Sherrie Mauffray of Annsley, who walks at least three times a week, finally coaxed her mother, Barbara Ladner, into accompanying her.

—Three generations of Perniciaro were present, as they are every night according to N. A. (Nuncy) Perniciaro Sr. of Waveland. His daughter, Linda Kay Davis; daughter-in-law, Micki Perniciaro and grandchildren, as well as Davis' mother-in-law, Barbara Davis, were all seen rounding the curves.

—Donna Holzhauser was getting infant daughter Cassie off to an early start as she pushed a stroller accompanied by her mother, Cathy Holzhauser, and Theresa O'Brien.

—Inge Felder of Waveland and daughter, Sharon Jacobi, walk almost every night—each claiming to do so for the other.

—Irene Dillman and Mamie Carver are "every nighters," walking two miles.

—Eloise Toups, 70, of Shoreline Park, was out with her husband, Arnold, 72. The Toupses and friend Manuel Ovalle, also of Shoreline Park, were venturing out on the track for the first time.

—Squeaky Hille of Bay St. Louis was spotted taking a break after finishing his nightly trek, while daughters Casie and Kellie continued on their three-mile journey.

—Michael Santalli and brother, Scottie, of Bay St. Louis were found using the warm-up equipment adjacent to the track as their mother walked.

A walker surveyed hopes the warm-up area will be expanded to include conventional playground equipment like swing sets to occupy small children while their parents walk.

—J. B. Lane, 74, and his wife, Lavera, 74, of Waveland customarily walk the track before most people walk to their driveways to pick up the morning paper.

The couple, who celebrated their 54th wedding anniversary last week, walks daily with the encouragement of their doctors. Lane has had heart trouble and his wife, high blood pressure. Both were advised to continue an exercise program for better circulation.

"We just can't do any better than this," said Lane. "We tried walking at home, but here you aren't bothered with dogs, skateboards and other obstructions."

—Mary Elleg Daman and husband, Hank, of Bay St. Louis were passing several walkers at a brisk clip. He is preparing for jogging competition and she just "walks fast."

As on city streets, there are courtesy rules on the track where slower walkers yield to faster ones and persons walking "the wrong way" are tolerated.

—Bay St. Louis resident Dorothy Booker began walking the track on June 13 and at one time had worked up to five miles. She now walks three.

—Betty Dempsey and Shelia Cowart walk up to three miles, preparing for an upcoming walk-a-thon. On Sunday night, the two had coerced an unsuspecting pair of visitors into walking the track.

oxygen safely and efficiently. A maximum heart rate is calculated by subtracting one's age from 220.

Crittenden uses the track himself and encourages his patients to take advantage of it. "I recommend a combination of diet and exercise, and walking is one exercise every patient can do," he said. "For those who are walking to lose weight—they are burning approximately 100 calories per mile. It is a

POINTS TO REMEMBER ABOUT WALKING

1. If your postexercise 10-second heart rate (pulse) is lower than your target heart rate, walk a little more vigorously next time.

2. If your postexercise 10-second heart rate

(pulse) is above your target heart rate, walk a little slower next time.

3. Stop immediately if you experience any discomfort and consult your doctor.

Internist Dr. James C. Crittenden recommends walking two miles per outing, preferably in 40 minutes. To check the effectiveness of the exercise, a patient is taught to check his pulse and compare the number with a chart which outlines 'target heart rates.'

A target heart rate is usually 60-75% of one's maximum heart rate, and includes a range in which the heart and lungs use matter of expending energy."

"A good pair of walking shoes is essential to avoid leg and foot injury," he continued. "It is also advisable to start slowly and build up to walking a greater distance."

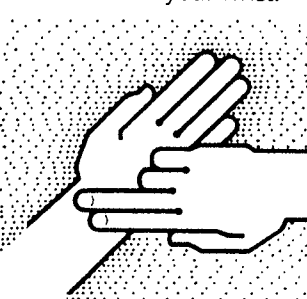

As in beginning any new exercise program, it is advisable to consult your physician to determine which heart rate range is appropriate to achieve.

TAKING YOUR PULSE

Hold your hand with the palm facing up and place the first two fingers of your other hand on the thumb side of your wrist.

Press gently and count the number of beats you feel for 10 seconds.

Or

Gently place your first two fingers over a blood vessel under your jaw and count the number of beats you feel for 10 seconds.

Multiply this number by 6 to find your heart rate in beats per minute. For example: 20 beats in 10 seconds = 120 beats per minute.

Irene Dillman and Mamie Carver

Chris Curtis and son, Jonah

FINDING YOUR TARGET RATE

To obtain maximal benefits from walking, you should increase your heart rate to a range that helps your heart and lungs use oxygen efficiently and safely. This range is called your target heart rate, which is usually 60% to 75% of your maximum heart rate.

To find your 10-second heart rate equivalent, divide your target heart rate by 6 (examples: $99 \div 6 = 17$; $123 \div 6 = 21$.)

Age	Maximum heart rate	10-second target heart rate
35	185 beats/min	19-23 beats
40	180 beats/min	18-23 beats
45	175 beats/min	18-22 beats
50	170 beats/min	17-21 beats
55	165 beats/min	17-21 beats
60	160 beats/min	16-20 beats
65	155 beats/min	15-19 beats
70	150 beats/min	15-19 beats

To find your maximum heart rate, subtract your age from 220 (example: $220 - \text{age } 55 = 165$). To find your target heart rate, multiply by 0.6 (60%) or multiply by 0.75 (75%) of your maximum heart rate (examples: $165 \times 0.6 = 99$; $165 \times 0.75 = 123$).

Take your heart rate at baseline (before you exercise) and immediately upon stopping your exercise. During exercise, stop and again take your heart rate to see if you are approaching your target heart rate.

Bourg pleased with success of new walking track

BY JANET MCQUEEN

County Recreation Director Hilda Bourg expressed amazement at the enormous popularity of the walking track.

"I expected it to be used, but not as well-used as it has been," she said. "I am absolutely thrilled to see the number of families using it together—everything from strollers to wheelchairs. I even saw a man using a walker."

The track is the culmination of the cooperative efforts of Bourg and the Park Commission, Hancock County Supervisors and former Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson, engineer Larry Seal, architect Michael Reeves who donated his time in planning the lighting and many others including the trustees from the Hancock County Jail, who have provided much of the physical labor.

"The hospital (Hancock Medical Center) has been extremely supportive," she said.

Many walkers surveyed expressed the need for a water fountain at the track, which Bourg says will be installed once the final landscape architecture plans are in place. The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, Bay-Waveland Garden Club and Bourg are working with a landscape architect to finalize the design.

Another suggestion from the public was for a restroom facility, which Bourg said will not become a reality.

"Part of the popularity of the track is its safety," Bourg said. "There will be no structures in the area to decrease the visibility and lessen the safety factor."

Toddler recreation equipment is planned for the area adjacent to the track and parking plans are also in the works. Persons are asked not to park on the side of the emergency entrance lane to the hospital.

"I feel the county has spent the taxpayers' money very wisely," she said. Many plants, benches and other items have been offered free of charge for use at the track.

Ballitan artist of month at Pass Library

BY D.C. HARTILL

Paintings and sculpture by Marian Lee Ballitan will be exhibited at the Pass Christian Public Library through August.

Ballitan, of Pass Christian, is an English teacher by profession, works in her art studio and has the art done traditional woodcut and contemporary collage printmaking.

"I've taught in the art department for 15 years and I've been a teacher for 20 years," she says.

Ballitan has studied art at William Carey College in the 1960s and she has studied printmaking with Sheila Sprague. She is especially interested in the history of the art and design of the 19th and 20th centuries.

Opera Theatre membership drive underway coastwide

The 1989-90 Gulf Coast Opera Theatre membership drive is currently underway according to GCOT president Charles Kremer.

Opera Salon members and other volunteers will man a booth at the Edgewater Mall Saturday, August 19, to enroll new subscribers and to answer questions concerning the Opera Theatre and its productions.

Sigmund Romberg's "New Moon", the final performance of the current season, will be performed October 6-7, at 8:15 p.m., in the Biloxi Saenger Theatre for the Performing Arts.

The new season will include "Elegy in Gray", and opera based on the life of Jefferson Davis. Music for that opera commemorating the 100th anniversary of Davis' death is by Biloxian Dr. Lawrence M. Oden, with libretto by Bob McKeown.

Leon Cavallo's "Pagliacci" is also included in the upcoming season.

For tickets or further information, contact membership chairman, Mrs. Jack Kill at 392-1571 or 388-2560.

Department regulates day care menus

More than two million children in the United States—and 42,400 in Mississippi—attend day care centers while their parents work.

Many of these children eat at least one and sometimes two or more meals each day at the center. Because the preschool years are vital to a child's growth and development, parents and day care center operators want to assure that children get nutritious and satisfying meals and snacks.

The Mississippi State Department of Health helps through promoting standards for nutritional care in day care facilities.

MSDH licenses approximately 1,172 day care centers throughout the state. County health department officials try to visit each day care center at least twice a year. Nutritionists inspect the centers periodically to ensure compliance.

Jane Emling, director of Child Care and Special Licensure, said, "Our focus is on making sure kids get the nutrition they need for optimal growth and development. We try to make sure each center provides food according to ADA recommendations."

Children who stay in day care centers five to nine hours receive one meal and one to two snacks daily. Those who stay for nine or more hours per day get two meals and one to two snacks.

"The most misunderstood item seems to be breakfast," Emling said. "Since the facility is required to serve breakfast if the child is there for more than nine hours, a parent can choose this option: If a parent feeds the child before going to the center and does not want the child to eat breakfast there, a written statement to that effect must be placed in the child's file."

"The same applies to the parent who wants to send a child's breakfast with him. All this should be documented," she said.

Emling added that once food is brought into the center, the facility director becomes responsible for its safe and sanitary storage.

The American Dietetic Association requires day care centers to plan meals and snacks to meet USDA Recommended Daily Allowances.

The Mississippi State Department of Health fully supports this policy and considers any foods that children bring to the center to be supplemental only. Day care centers must provide proper meals even if some children bring their own.

"We want to insure that children enrolled in a day care program eight or more hours receive the kinds and amounts of food that will provide at least one-half to two-thirds of their daily nutritional needs," Emling said.

South Alabama names graduates, honor students

University of South Alabama President Dr. Frederick P. Whiddon announced the following students received scholastic honors during the 1989 spring quarter:

Bay St. Louis: President's Scholars, 4.0 perfect grade-point average, Joan Marie Breeden and Cynthia Ann Martinovich.

Dean's Scholar, 3.5 or above, Angelique Renita Bell.

The following students completed degree work during the 1989 spring quarter:

Bay St. Louis: Kathleen Mary Stakelum, bachelor of science in nursing.

Waveland: Anne F. Schott, doctor of medicine.

Fahey earns Carey college scholarship

William Carey College students have accepted more than $100,000 in academic scholarships for the 1989-90 academic year.

Among these recipients are two students from Ocean Springs and Waveland who have been awarded honors scholarships. These scholarships are based entirely on academic achievement and potential.

Lauria Oakes Farmer of Ocean Springs is a senior majoring in elementary education. A student at the Gulf Coast campus, she is the daughter of J. W. Oakes. She is the wife of Bryan K. Farmer.

Judith Fahey of Waveland, is a junior elementary education major.

Guide to removing stickers and labels

Several homemakers have recently asked me about removing stickers and labels from household items. This is sometimes a frustrating chore. Often the removal process is a matter of "trial and error."

If one procedure doesn't work it may be necessary to try the next one. Avoid using strong abrasives or solutions that will scratch, scratch, or harm the household item.

Test the cleaning material to be sure it will not harm the surface of the item. Rub a dab of the material on a small, inconspicuous area. If it has been used a material that will not harm the item, it is safe to use.

Stickers with Pressure-Sensitive Adhesive

1. Stickers, labels and tapes with pressure-sensitive adhesive can be removed by rubbing them with a backing cloth or a cloth pressed in place. Often the label peels off.

The remaining adhesive can then be rubbed with your fingers until the same way you can remove the label. If the adhesive is still on the surface, use a cloth to rub it off. If the adhesive is still on the surface, use a cloth to rub it off.

2. Another method is to use a cloth to rub the adhesive off. If the adhesive is still on the surface, use a cloth to rub it off.

dull edge of a knife. The next procedure will depend on the surface of the item. It is important to pretest the surface of some items to avoid damage.

3. Sometimes the adhesive can be removed with a solution of warm water, liquid dishwashing detergent and vinegar or ammonia. Other suggestions include oil, fingernail polish remover and acetone.

4. Depending on the surface, it may be possible to apply a small amount of a commercial grease spot remover on the adhesive. Strive to get the cloth under the film to work the adhesive off.

5. The soaking fluid will remove the adhesive, however, the fluid can soften some kinds of plastic if left in contact with the plastic surface for a long time.

A procedure for using cleaning fluid is to saturate a folded cloth or paper towel with the cleaning fluid and place over the label or the tape. After several minutes when the adhesive softens, rub with the cloth or towel until all traces of the label and adhesive have been removed.

Stickers with Water-Soluble Glue

Often times the labels with water-soluble glue—the kind that must be dampened before it will stick—need only be soaked in water until the label loosens and the glue dissolves. Saturate several layers of white paper towels with warm water, and place over the label.

It is sometimes difficult to tell the type of adhesive that has been used. As a rule of thumb, remember the water-soluble type is applied often only to part of the label and generally used on larger labels.

The soaking method with warm water will usually remove the water-soluble adhesive, but it can make the pressure-sensitive label more difficult to remove.

Purple Price Marks

Purple price marks that so easily transfer to kitchen counter tops can be removed with a cloth dampened in a solution of half chlorine bleach and half water.

Rent to be installed at MUW

Sixteen individuals, including the new institutional executive officer, Dr. Clyda S. Rent, have served as the head of Mississippi University for Women during its 105-year history. Dr. Rent will be the 12th individual to be inaugurated as the president, while four individuals have served as interim presidents.

Dr. Rent succeeds Dr. James W. Strobel who served as president from 1977 until 1988. Dr. Harvey M. Craft served as interim president from July 1988 until his death in October 1988.

Dr. Delene W. Lee, current vice president for administration and finance, served as interim president from October 1988 until April 1989.

Although Dr. Strobel was inaugurated as the 13th chief executive officer of the institution and Dr. Rent, his successor, is being inaugurated as the 12th president, the count of presidents who served prior to Strobel included Miss Mary J. S. Callaway, who served two terms as interim president, and Miss Nellie Keirn. For historical accuracy, the number of presidents of MUW is 12 and the number of interim presidents is four.

Baldree, Clayborn are American Legion winners

Recipients of the American Legion Award at Waveland Elementary School for 1989 are

LEANNE BALDREE

Leanne Baldree and Aaron Clayborn.

The awards were presented by L. D. "Danny" Carter, commander, and Donald Decker of the American Legion Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray Post 77 of Waveland.

This award is presented by the post each year to two students selected by a committee of teachers at the school and reads: "In recognition of the possession of high qualities of courage, honor, leadership, patriotism, scholarship and service which are necessary to the preservation and protection of the fundamental institution of our government and the advancement of society."

Baldree is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Baldree, and Clayborn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonza Clayborn Jr. Both winners are honor students in Ms. Carolyn Lea's fourth grade class at Waveland Elementary School.

AARON CLAYBORN

ON ETV

POINT OF VIEW

"P.O.V." is filmmaker lingo for "point of view." It is also a provocative and compelling series coming to Mississippi ETV.

The second season of this critically acclaimed PBS series presents two of America's finest nonfiction films, "Wise Guys" and "Coming Out," at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 10.

"Wise Guys" is David Hartwell's sometimes hysterical, sometimes poignant, peek behind the scenes and into the fact-filled minds of contestants in the "Jeopardy!" $100,000 Tournament of Champions.

Also on this program, "Coming Out" focuses on a rarely seen ritual of upper-class society, the Debutante Cotillion in Washington, D.C. The filmmakers focus on Miss Mary Stuart Montague Price, founder and chairman of the ball.

Barber named Presidential Scholar

Honor students are the cream of any academic crop. College students earning Presidential Honor Scholar status are the cream of the cream of the crop.

Students wishing to be considered for William Carey College's Honors Program must have earned valedictorian or salutatorian honors in high school or have ranked in the top five percent of their class or in the top ten percent nationally on a recognized college entrance examination.

Nathan Barber, son of Rev. and Mrs. Nathan Barber of Bay St. Louis, will join the ranks of Presidential Scholars in Carey's Honors Program this fall. He will be a pre-law major.

What to do if chest pain grabs your attention.

Don't wait to see what's going to happen next. By then it may be too late. Get help immediately.

Chest pain and pressure are heart attack symptoms. There are times the pain may radiate down your arm, shoulders or neck. You may become dizzy, break out in a cold sweat, feel faint or sick to your stomach.

Sometimes only a few symptoms occur. Sometimes more. Sometimes the symptoms can even be due to another problem.

Only one thing is certain. The sooner heart problems are treated, the better your chance of recovering to live a full and productive life.

That's why we're here. The Heart Emergency Service at NorthShore Regional Medical Center is the first of its kind in this area. Located in our Emergency Department, we save lives by detecting heart problems rapidly and providing necessary treatment.

If you experience any symptoms of a heart attack, get immediate medical attention. Anytime, day or night, you can call our emergency 24-Hour Heartline at 1-800-HEART-13. An emergency care professional is available around the clock to answer questions, give advice or even dispatch an ambulance if necessary.

The Heart Center at NorthShore Regional Medical Center offers a complete range of cardiac care services. That's important to you during those first critical hours following a heart attack. And although you'll probably never need them, it's good to know our heart team is available 24 hours a day.

We employ powerful clot-dissolving drugs that can save lives by stopping and, in some instances, actually reversing the effects of heart attacks. But the sooner these drugs are administered the better the chance of a complete recovery.

Our advanced diagnostic capabilities, including a state-of-the-art cardiac catheterization laboratory, help us assess and treat heart problems more quickly than ever.

We also offer educational programs to help people prevent heart attacks, and rehabilitation services that help heart patients recover faster and more fully.

Learn more about The Heart Center at NorthShore Regional Medical Center by calling (504) 641-MDMD and we'll send you a free brochure that describes our cardiac care services in greater detail.

Remember, if your heart tries to tell you something, pay attention. Grab the phone. Call 1-800-HEART-13. Or go to the nearest hospital emergency department. If you're close to NorthShore Regional Medical Center, use the Heart Emergency Service in our Emergency Department located just east of Interstate 10 on 190 — Exit 266 — Gause Boulevard. Right away. Before the problem gets out of hand.

COMMUNITY SERVICES

Adult Literacy Education

Tutoring sessions for adults who want to learn to read and write are available through the Hancock County Library System. The program is open free of charge to any adult aged 16 and above who wants to improve reading skills to a grade five level.

Each student meets one-on-one with a certified tutor trained in the use of the Laubach Adult Literacy method. Student/tutor units meet at a time and learning center convenient to both. Learning centers for literacy are currently located in Bay St. Louis, Kiln, Waveland, Diamondhead, Dedeaux, Clermont Harbor and Pearlinton.

Call Helene Roth, Hancock County literacy coordinator at the Bay St. Louis Library, 467-5282, for information. Persons who wish to teach adults to read as volunteer literacy tutors are also encouraged to call.

Blood Pressure

Retired Senior Volunteer Program sponsors free blood pressure testing Tuesdays, 9:30-11:30 a.m., American Legion Post No. 77, Waveland; Wednesdays, 10:30-11:30 a.m., RSVP office, Senior Citizens Center, Old Spanish Trail, Bay St. Louis.

Hancock Medical Center Women's Auxiliary (Pink Ladies) conducts free blood pressure testing at the hospital, 10-11:30 a.m. Tuesdays.

Legal Line

Volunteer attorneys answer legal questions from the general public from 6 to 7 p.m., first Wednesdays at 1-374-4160 toll free. Call from pay telephones should be made collect. The service is sponsored by Harrison County Young Lawyers, South Mississippi Planning and Development District Area Agency on Aging and South Mississippi Legal Services Corporation.

Money Management

The Consumer Money Management Center serves the public by providing free financial consultations as well as informational literature and seminars for employers, educational institutions and civic and professional groups.

Information and assistance from the center relates to various aspects of personal money management including budgeting, credit repayment, insurance, and investments.

The service is sponsored by Mississippi State University and Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. To set up an appointment call Hancock County Extension Office, 467-5456.

Senior Center

Located in the Valena C. Jones Bldg. at 301 Old Spanish Trail in Bay St. Louis, the center serves Hancock County citizens 60 plus years of age.

Under the Hancock County Human Resource Agency, the center provides classes in ceramics, macrame, art, quilting, counted cross stitch, silk flowers, Christmas ornaments, framing, wood working and various other crafts. A morning snack is provided with donations from various clubs and businesses.

The center has a contract to provide 30 home delivered meals a day to those seniors who cannot provide for themselves, and 35 meals for those who have a need for a hot well-balanced meal daily in the cafeteria at the center.

Transportation is provided through a contract with Coast Area Transportation for most seniors in the county to bring them into the center, or to take them to the grocery, doctor, etc.

The contract with Methodist Senior Services provides two homemakers for about two hours a week to homebound, needy seniors to do light house-keeping or errands for them.

For more information, call the center at 467-9292 from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Senior Citizen Jobs

Seniors Job Registry, Russell Youth Court Building, 126 Court Street, Bay St. Louis, offers placement services to employees and employers.

The registry is a free community service provided by National Council of Senior Citizens Senior Aides Program funded by the Department of Labor through South Mississippi Planning and Development District.

The registry attempts to place seniors 55 years old or older in hourly, daily, weekly or monthly positions, according to Gertrude Sauer, coordinator.

Call 467-7945 for additional information. Office hours are 8 a.m. to noon Mondays through

Thrift Store

Waveland Conference, St. Vincent de Paul Society operates a thrift store, Waveland Civic Center, Coleman Avenue, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Proceeds benefit needy regardless of race or religion. 467-0703.
